Maputo, 5 October 2019 - On the occasion of the Peace and Reconciliation Day, the United Nations Coordinator in Mozambique, Myrta Kaulard, reiterates the UN support for peace and development in the country.

The moment is one of celebration and renewed hope, especially with the signing of the Maputo Peace and Reconciliation Agreement two months ago.

Lasting peace and genuine reconciliation are the key elements for sustainable development. Peace and sustainable development are mutually necessary and require the full engagement of all parts of society. One cannot exist without the other.
